

What we do

MacDonald Industries provides expert and innovative bathroom solutions for public spaces.

Manufacturing and supplying robust, cost effective, hygienic, environmentally friendly and timeless designed bathroom fittings for Commercial Offices, Education, Healthcare and Aged Care, Industrial, Public and Retail Amenities, Security and Sporting Facilities.

MacDonald Industries offers a complete range of bathroom products and our Technical Consultants are here to support you every step of the way.

Who we are

A family owned business in operation for 56 years MacDonald Industries has an enviable range of internationally renowned brands and technical experts to support your next project.

MacDonald Industries was established in 1966 by Albert (Al) Strickett as a specialist waste disposal equipment manufacturer and installer.

With the involvement of his sons, Ian Strickett in 1980 and David Strickett in 1982, the company expanded into commercial washroom equipment, urinal controls, flush valves, commercial stainless steel washroom equipment, metered (timed flow) faucets and shower fittings, thermostatic mixers, back flow preventers, pressure reducing valves, water hammer arrestors, solenoid valves and other specialized commercial washroom equipment. During this period, with investment in research and development, the business began manufacturing electronic sensor equipment for W.C. pans and faucets.

In 2020 Ian and David's nephew, Andrew Maddren, purchased the business continuing the family connection.

Since the establishment of the 1992 Building Act, New Zealand has had one of the most modern approaches to building regulation in the world. As innovators MacDonald Industries were the first to introduce a mains pressure flush valve in New Zealand (Zurn) and now dominate the market for flush valves in New Zealand.

MacDonald Industries purpose is to research, develop and manufacture innovative fluid control systems and search the world for the best delivery technology and make it available to the construction industry in New Zealand and Australia. This way MacDonald Industries also ensures it maintains its position as market leaders in commercial plumbing solutions.

MacDonald Industries is a solution led sales organization with light manufacturing and assembly of electronic commercial washroom products. MacDonald Industries has considerable experience and success in developing electronic controls for high security plumbing and works closely with prisons, hospitals and mental health units with bespoke solutions for these unique environments.

MacDonald Industries is based in Auckland with a branch in Christchurch, and employs twenty staff across New Zealand.

“Technical expertise is often reported to me as getting harder and harder to find in the plumbing industry. I am proud to lead a company that bucks this modern-day trend. At MacDonald Industries we search out and recruit experts in our field with a wealth of technical experience and who are passionate about finding the right solutions for our customers.

We benefit from having outstanding personal relationships with our suppliers of a nature that you only find in family-owned and managed businesses. Like us, our suppliers such as Delabie and KWC Franke are still family-owned businesses and as such the relationships are something special, and something we don't take for granted.”
